Local People Hasten to Subscribe to Fund for Designer of Float

Pedestrians, Truck and Ten
Automobiles Plunge Into
Cowlitz River

Contributions to the Chobe Appreciation Fund, which is being collected under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce for presentation to L. W. Chobe, designer of Glendale's prize-winning float at the Pasadena Rose Tournament, have started off with a spurt, according to a report made this morning by the committee in charge.

While the call for public subscription to the fund was sounded only yesterday morning by Jesse E. Smith, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and other public-spirited citizens, upwards of $100 have already been turned over to R. F. Kitterman, of the Security Trust & Savings bank, treasurer of the campaign, and to whom subscriptions must be made.

Those who have turned in their donations to date are:

JESSE E. SMITH $10.00
W. E. HEWITT 10.00
A. T. COWAN 10.00
DAN CAMPBELL 10.00
E. C. PENDROY 10.00
SECURITY TRUST & SAVINGS BANK 10.00
DAVID L. GREGG 10.00
ROY L. KENT 10.00
L. H. WILSON 10.00
W. A. TANNER 3.00
JAMES M. RHODES 1.00
E. F. SANDERS 1.00

The idea of the Chobe fund was originated by the Chamber of Commerce as the result of a contagious opinion that Mr. Chobe should be honored by Glendale in a substantial way for the hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of publicity that has been given Glendale throughout the United States through the mirror of its floral float, which not only captured the prize at Pasadena this year but in previous years as well.

J. G. Huntley, chairman of the float committee, which is actively engaged in the collection of donations, announces that everybody in Glendale is invited to subscribe to the fund. Donations of any amount will be cheerfully received, he states.

The Glendale Evening News each day will act as the fund barometer by indicating in its columns the fund amounts received and the subscribers. All subscriptions, however, must be made to R. F. Kitterman, treasurer of the fund, at the Security Trust & Savings bank, Brand and Broadway.

Shorter Hours for Movie Actors Sought

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 4.—If motion picture actors must be worked like horses they are entitled to an extra share of the oats, in the opinion of John Emerson, president of the Actors' Equity association, who brought a two weeks' investigation of local studio conditions to a close today in conjunction with sessions being held in New York in an effort to secure a forty-eight hour week contract for film stars.

Emerson declared that a forty-eight hour week is imperative if the actors and actresses are to give their best efforts and that as long as they are compelled to work sixteen hours or more a day the motion picture will remain mediocre. One of the most intolerable conditions locally, according to Emerson, is the practice of some producers to pay commissions to agents who in no way assisted them in securing workers.

'Protests Raid on Narcotic Hospital

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 4.—An investigation of the raid on the narcotic hospital in which records were seized showing that Wallace Reid, Juanita Hansen and other well-known persons had been treated there as "dope" addicts was started today by Dr. Charles Blessing.

Dr. Blessing returned to Los Angeles from San Francisco and immediately conferred with his attorney, Reuben G. Hunt. Together they went to the office of Assistant United States District Attorney Mark Herron to demand the return of the documents seized in the raid.

Brilliant Scene at Mattison B. Jones Home

MORE THAN 600 ARE PRESENT
AT ELABORATE HOUSE WARMING

Twenty-Third Anniversary of Marriage Also Cause for Congratulations to Couple

LIKE a beautiful dream, bringing back the bygone days in the sunny south was the brilliant scene at "Bel Aire" last night, when Mr. and Mrs. Mattison B. Jones entertained more than 600 friends at an old time New Year's house warming and reception in celebration of the opening of their beautiful new home and also the twenty-third anniversary of their marriage.

This attractive colonial home stands in spacious grounds that are located on one of the choicest spots on Kenneth road, nestled near the mountains, with a view from the south front that is unsurpassed. It has only recently been completed, and is furnished with exquisite taste, combining the modern touch and convenience with the perfect atmosphere of the old time southern home.

Wonderful Setting
It made a wonderful setting for the brilliant throng of handsomely gowned women and men, arriving and departing continually until a late hour. The charming graciousness of the host and hostess and the friends assisting, the holiday spirit prevailing over all, will live a long, happy memory in the hearts of those who enjoyed this social event which marks the beginning of the new year in such a delightful manner.

The rooms were decorated with artistic taste. Vases of Killarney roses graced the drawing room. In the dining room, the table was centered with a long basket of General McArthur roses, with delicate maidenhair ferns. Red candles added a cheerful holiday glow to the beautiful lighting effects. In the breakfast room, violets decked the side tables.

Charming Rooms
On the landing in the hallway at the head of the wide colonial staircase were tall baskets of chrysanthemums in pastel shades, and potted palms. The boudoirs, on the upper floor, were all open. One, a dream in Alice blue, was brightened with pink cyclamen; another, furnished in old ivory and old rose, and a third in taupe, with lavender hangings and

EXCHANGE CLUB'S
'23 WORK BEGINS

D. Ripley Jackson, Newly Elected President, Urges
Program of Activity

The Glendale Exchange Club yesterday noon in the Broadway Inn held its first meeting in 1923. As newly elected president Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson presided. He called attention to the success and activity of the club during the past year and expressed a hope that it might be as prosperous during the present year.

Souvenirs of appreciation in the form of fountain pens were presented to W. B. Kelly, retiring president, James Howarth, secretary, and William H. Block, assistant secretary.

"I certainly appreciate the friendship and good fellowship extended to me during the entire past year by every member of the Exchange Club," stated Mr. Kelly. Mr. Howarth asserted that his duties as secretary of the organization had been a pleasure as he felt that in this way he was fulfilling the motto of the club which is "Service."

Comes From North
Warren Z. Newton of 121 North Brand boulevard, who was an active member of the San Francisco Exchange club until recently, commented briefly upon his pleasure at being able to make his home in Glendale.

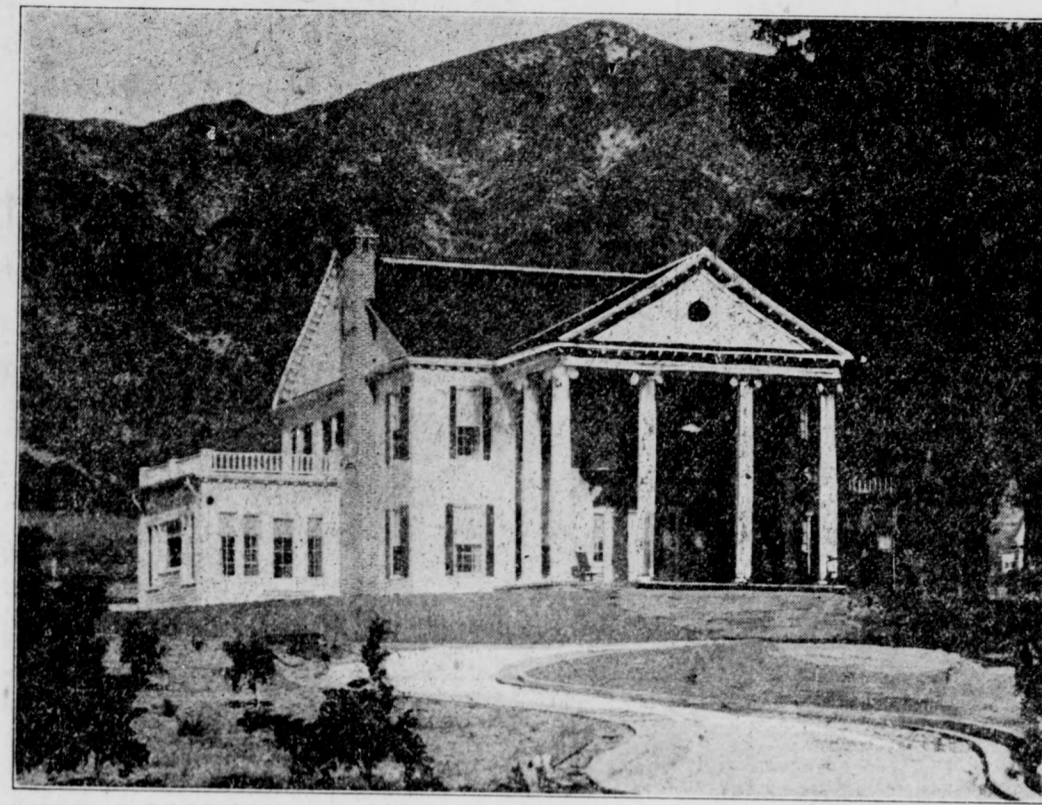

Councilman C. E. Kimlin, manager of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, was made an honorary member of the board of directors. He expressed his appreciation of this honor.

Guests at the meeting were C. F. Stuart of 638 East Broadway and Harry Speake of Long Beach. Others present at the luncheon were: George A. Whitaker, Dr. Paul S. Trexler, W. C. Waring, Ed N. Radke, Dr. James A. Bell, C. L. Marlene, G. G. McConnell, Fred S. Hill, L. G. Scovern, C. C. Coghlin, George A. Thomas, Dr. T. P. Neely, R. E. Johnston and E. B. Sutton.

NEW CLEW TO CLARA
LOS ANGELES, Jan. 4.—Reports that Clara Phillips had been identified as a member of a New Year's eve party at the Ritz cafe in Seattle were under investigation today with little promise of verification.

Deputy Sheriff Townsend wired Sheriff Traeger from Seattle that he had located persons who identified a photograph of Mrs. Phillips as that of a woman in the cafe New Year's eve.

Also, Mr. and Mrs. Jones celebrated their twenty-third anniversary of their marriage. Below are pictures of Mr. and Mrs. Jones and their daughter, Miss Winifred, the latter shown at the right. More than 600 friends gathered last night to pay their respects to Mr. and Mrs. Jones. Photo of Jones home by Ralph Brown.

LASSES DEER IN IVANHOE'S HILLS

Chases Doe on Horseback
And Effects Capture
By Aid of Lariat

It may not be long before Glendale deer hunters will be able to go out at sunrise, bag a buck, and return home with venison for breakfast.

This was the prediction made today by Frank P. Stearns, 336 West Park avenue, who witnessed the capture of a 2-year-old doe in the Ivanhoe hills, a mile south of this city yesterday morning.

Mr. Stearns, who is building a home near Silver Lake, caught sight of the fleet-footed animal as it darted up a hill several rods away. At the same time Frank Lane, an employee at the Tom Mix studio, witnessed the frightened mountain beauty as it endeavored to conceal itself in the strange surroundings.

Chase on Horseback
Quickly mounting one of his horses, Lang gave chase and approached the runaway just as it ran against a wire fence. Here he gave his lariat a dexterous toss, with the result that all four feet of the doe were ensnared in the lasso.

The captive, which was a perfect specimen of natural grace and beauty, was placed in a cage, to await the fate to be meted out by Los Angeles city officials, who were notified of the "catch."

Multiple System Proves Its Value Very Quickly, Says
Office Secretary

Three hundred and ninety-six pieces of Glendale real estate properties valued at $2,360,400 were turned over to members of the Glendale Real Estate Board during the month of December, 1922, for sale under the multiple listing system according to a report made yesterday by Winifred Traver, office secretary of the Glendale Real Estate Board.

Miss Traver said that the month just passed represented the first thirty-day period that the multiple listing system had been in operation in Glendale. She says that the figures above are ample proof that the new system is being well received in this district.

Sales Result
Of the total property listed under the multiple listing plan during December, fourteen sales valued at $57,000 were effected by local operators of the system, Miss Traver stated.

She also stated that there are fifty-two members of the multiple listing system, exclusive of Glendale, who are established in sales.

Don H. Webb Again
Kiwanian Secretary

Don H. Webb of 600 East Broadway was re-elected secretary of the Glendale Kiwanis Club yesterday by the board of directors which met at the high school.

Mr. Webb, who was not present at the meeting, was praised highly for his efficiency during the past year.

COLLEGE WOMEN IN ORGANIZATION

Those Eligible to Meet on January 20 at Home of
Mrs. Warren Roberts

The Glendale College Women's club is to become a permanent organization Saturday afternoon, January 20, when all eligible college or university women in the city are invited to a tea at the home of Mrs. Warren Roberts at 617 East Elk street, where an informal social hour will be enjoyed, election of officers held and plans for further organization made.

Preliminary plans for the club were made in December at a meeting of college and university women at the home of Mrs. A. L. Ferguson, who was named temporary chairman.

At that time it was decided that requirements for membership in the club would be the same as those maintained by the Los Angeles University Women's club, namely that an applicant for membership must have six units of credit or two years of full academic work, or be a graduate from a college or university giving a four year course and conferring the A. B. degree.

General Invitation
This rule is to be strictly followed in further organization and all Glendale college or university women who are eligible under its requirements are invited to meet at the Warren Roberts home January 20 at 2:30 o'clock.

All those present on that day will be enrolled as charter members of the club and will participate in the choice of officers.

Mrs. Ferguson announces that any one interested in the club and in attending the first meeting call her at Glendale 505-M; or Mrs. Warren Roberts at Glendale 772-W; or Mrs. Helen S. Moir at Glendale 2407-J.

Board of Trustees Direct
That Improvements Be Started at Once

Street Commissioner Claude Bramble, of Eagle Rock, was instructed by the board of trustees Tuesday evening to proceed with the rolling of certain sections of streets lying between Valley Drive and South College View and between Park and Myrtle avenues.

This action was taken on an offer by C. E. Hegge, that if the city would do this work he and others in the territory to be improved would stand the expense. As evidence of good faith, Mr. Hegge offered to deposit whatever the street commissioner estimated it would cost to do the work.

Mr. Hegge appeared before the trustees a week previous and requested that the city do the work and pay for same out of the general fund. He said at that time that he had had an understanding with the former board of trustees that the improvements would be made in such manner. Search of the records failed to disclose such an agreement on the part of the former trustees and Mr. Hegge.

Supports Statement
Mr. Flax, a neighbor of Mr. Hegge, was present Tuesday night and supported Mr. Hegge in the statement by saying he was present at the time and believed that to have been the understanding.

Mayor Osborne stated "the present board would feel duty bound to carry out any contract entered into by former members of the board with others, but as no record had been made of the transaction, the board felt it was justified in making its own decision, therefore, if Mr. Hegge was ready to stand the expense, the board would order the work done at once."

Street Commissioner Bramble estimated that it would take a day and half's work to do the work asked by Mr. Hegge. The latter then put up a deposit covering the estimated amount.

Rev. Carry, of Church of Christ, Is Directing
Mid-Week Service

Special sessions of prayer meetings, under direction of Rev. W. J. Carry, of the Church of Christ, are being held for an indefinite period at the homes of members residing in the east end, central and west end of Eagle Rock. The meetings are held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of each week. Mr. Carry states that the meetings are proving very uplifting and satisfactory in every way. The object of this arrangement is to give all the members the advantage of a mid-week meeting without having a great distance to go. When the meetings outgrow the private homes a permanent meeting place will be established.

The west-end session Tuesday evening was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Eurbanks, 151 North Douglas avenue; the central session last night was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Krause, 410 East Sycamore, and the west-end meeting will be held tonight at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Jeter of 206 North Hartwick avenue.

DIVORCE EVIL IS BLAMED ON LAX
MARRIAGE LAW

Judge Summerfield, of L. A.
Tells Women Remedy
For Situation

Judge Summerfield, of the superior court, of Los Angeles, delivered a very interesting and instructive lecture to a large number of Eagle Rock citizens at the Parent-Teacher Association meeting held in Central school yesterday afternoon. His subject was: "The Law's Protection to Children."

The speaker stressed the fact that our present laws are totally inadequate to afford the protection necessary to the welfare of our children, and are very defective when applied to the question of marriage. He showed that the divorce evil was becoming rampant and suggested that more stringent restrictions should be thrown around those wishing to contract marriages. He advocated the passage of a law that would require publishing the fact that a marriage was about to be solemnized, and stated that such a law would undoubtedly be introduced at the next session of the legislature.

At the conclusion of the program a committee, consisting of Mrs. J. C. Ritter, Mrs. J. B. Squire, Mrs. R. C. McNitt and Mrs. Ann Harrison, drafted the following resolution, which was adopted without a dissenting vote by the members of the association:

Resolution Is Read
"Whereas, The present law relating to marriage makes it possible for children to secure licenses without due consideration; we, the Central School Parent-Teachers' Association, in meeting today, assembled, recommend the legislative enforcement be enacted to prevent the issuance of marriage licenses unless such intention be published at least fifteen days in advance of such issuance.

"To any such legislation we hereby pledge our full support."

The resolution was signed by the committee in full.

Numbers on the program that were enthusiastically received were the solos by George P. Willey and the piano solos by Mrs. A. S. Rose. Mr. Willey and Mrs. Rose each responded to encores and would have been called back again and again had the wishes of the audience been obeyed.

The members of the association consider this one of the most important and interesting meetings they have held during the past twelve months.

Trapper Arrested For Shooting Fish

PERRYVILLE, Mo., Jan. 4. — Traditional Indian methods of hunting and fishing are being employed here, according to Deputy Game Warden Base, who arrested an old-time hunter and trapper here for shooting fish with a bow and arrow.

Lige Freeman, the trapper, lives on a creek north of here, where, according to the warden, he was rearing a real harvest. Hunters say an arrow discharged from a strong bow pierces the water better than a bullet from a gun.

Cadman and Tsianina to Present Program for Music Club

Charles Wakefield Cadman, musician and composer, and Princess Tsianina, mezzo soprano, are to be guests and entertainers at the meeting to be held tonight by the Glendale Music club in the auditorium of the Glendale Union High school.

Their program is arranged in three parts and will include vocal and instrumental numbers, the majority of them being Indian melodies.

Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, club president, announced for the benefit of Glendaleans desirous of attending the concert, that admission may be secured by the purchase of a membership card at the door. In view of the worth of the Cadman concert, this event tonight is worth the entire membership fee.

Unhappy thought. Maybe it will be necessary to scrap the present merchant fleet and build another with larger bar space.

Promise Sensations In 'Hooded Murders'

BASTROP, La., Jan. 4.—Seven days of "watchful waiting," marking the battle of wits between state and Ku Klux Klan authorities over the brutal "hooded mob" murders in Morehouse parish was near an end today. Sensational developments are expected momentarily.

A declaration of martial law was rumored. Troop commanders were careful to mask the next step in efforts to punish the slayers of Watt Daniels and Thomas F. Richards, Mer Rouge citizens. The cavalry detachment sent into Morehouse parish to assist three companies of infantry, was stationed at Mer Rouge.

Sheriff Fred Carpenter received a telegram today from L. Calhoun, deputy sent to Baltimore with papers charging Dr. B. M. McKoin with murder, stating that Dr. McKoin will depart today "voluntarily" for Louisiana. He expected to arrive for the opening hearing Friday afternoon. Friends now are flocking to the doctor's side.

STAR CAR SOLVES TRAFFIC PROBLEM

Dilley & Armstrong, New
Auto Agency, Comment
On Light Models

That the solution of the traffic problem is to be found in light cars is the contention of Dilley & Armstrong, local agents for the Star automobiles, who are to open their place of business tomorrow at 115 West Harvard street.

In support of this theory Dilley & Armstrong say: "Because of the fact that the masses are buying low priced cars you may look for generous support for any more that will relieve the new traffic problems that have arisen; because these people will ride in constantly increasing numbers, now that cars may be purchased and run so economically. The Star will give better than twenty-six miles per gallon of gasoline consumed, while the oil consumption is so small that it is hardly noticeable per 100 miles of road travel."

Another need of the times is a fancy fly that will delight fish as it delights fishermen.

I Live Right Here In Glendale, Folks

—And if I didn't believe from the bottom of my heart that Bemco No. 1 was a sure winner I wouldn't back it with my own money or urge my friends and neighbors to come in with me.

—In the first place, the location of BEMCO No. 1, lies as pretty as any lease on Signal Hill—California's greatest oil field—and the big producers on all sides assure that we'll hit the real thing in oil sands—all we have to do is to go after the oil in the right way.

—And, folks—there's where we have fully protected your every interest. First, we have built the strongest, staunchest derrick in the whole field; we are putting in the best machinery money can buy, and as for the driller, we have signed a $100,000 Turnkey contract with the famous Jack McKeon, who brings in the "Big Ones," and that drilling contract is protected by a $50,000 bond on Mr. McKeon's part to guarantee a perfect hole to the depth of 4,500 feet without a cent's extra expense.

—And, did we tell you about our capitalization? It's only for $125,000 divided into 1250 units of $100 each, which means that an ordinary 2000 barrel well will pay $292 on every $100 you invest in BEMCO No. 1 the first year, figuring the oil at the low price $1.00 per barrel.

—The rig is completed. We're rearin' to go. You'll sure get action on every dollar you lay down with us on BEMCO No. 1, as we are bound to make a killing.

—Give yourself a chance to WIN WITH US. At least LOOK at our proposition. It won't cost you a penny—it won't put you under the slightest obligation. See the lease at our expense on the corner of Center and Pasadena avenues, just two blocks east of American avenue. SPORTS

The Sport Crucible

By Davis J. Walsh
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—The movies went out and got Will Hays, the stage replied with Augustus Thomas and for some years organized baseball has been in the care of Judge Landis. All are men of such prominence as to impart an air of stability to the industries they govern and it has suddenly occurred to some master mind, interested in the affairs of fistie games that something of this nature might be done for boxing.

The matter will come up at the annual convention of the National Boxing Association at the Hotel Astor January 15 and 16 when boxing commissioners from all states where the sport is legalized, will consider various plans for its betterment. It is understood sponsors of the plan have "Big Bill" Edwards in mind for the position. So much for that.

The proposition goes further, however. If a national head can be appointed to control the sport the next step will be nothing less than an attempt to secure official tolerances, if not actual recognition of boxing in states where it is now taboo. The prominence of the man appointed is expected, of course, to lend dignity to this project.

According to Tex O'Rourke, secretary of the association, the groundwork has been laid at Washington that would elevate the boxing to the status of a national sport. Tex declares that Gutzon Borglum, noted sculptor and president of the ill-fated International Sporting Club, has already discussed the project with President Harding and officials of the war and navy departments.

Just whether Mr. Borglum's ideas were given encouragement or polite attention, Tex neglected to state. It is believed, however, that the president is more or less interested, provided proof can be furnished that boxing is being conducted as a national sport should be.

"The convention will be asked to consider the question of adopting some definite plans whereby boxing can be submitted to officials at Washington for recognition as a national sport," Tex declared.

"I am glad to say that we expect to see the sport legalized in Illinois and Missouri during the present year, and if we can secure the president's recognition, much of the opposition will die a natural death."

PLAYERS DODGE UNION PRESIDENCY

SAN DIEGO AFTER 'COACH' CALLAND

Hasten Backward at Mere Mention of Opportunity to 'Take Chair'

Southern High School Seeks Services of Captain of Trojan Eleven

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—All nominees for the presidency to the Baseball Players union seem to be hastening to accept the honor conferred upon them with an eagerness similar to that which a prisoner seeks his handcuffs. The accepted procedure is to decline with and without thanks, meantime maintaining an air of pronounced austerity.

First it was Frank Frisch who spurned the position. He was for the union, quoth Frank, but had no intention of shouldering the responsibility for it. Then in similar accents did George Burns decline the honor and now, it is understood, that Jacques Fournier is not so keen on the proposition, even if he proved acceptable, is a debatable point. Jacques is soon to go on a long journey.

The next candidate mentioned without being consulted, of course, was John K. Tener, ex-governor of Pennsylvania and a former National league president. From Charleroi, Pa., where Mr. Tener may now be found, comes the intimation that the proposed use of his name in this connection is more or less unwelcome.

Christy Mathewson is another who got away running as soon as he discovered he was about to be made a recipient of this unsolicited honor.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Frogs that bark like foxhounds and squeal like frightened pigs, according to the American Museum of Natural History, among the more than two hundred living preserved specimens of reptile life brought to it by an expedition just returned from a year in the wilds of Santo Domingo.

Capture of the barking frogs was thus described by members of the expedition:

"Hunting was carried on chiefly at night, and it was a weird experience to penetrate the blackness of these tropical forests and to hear, as one would suppose, dogs barking high over one's head in the treetops. The first barking frog that was captured startled the members of the party considerably. Instead of wiggling like a frog, or even growling like a dog, it opened its mouth wide and gave a terrific squeal, such as a pig in agony might make."

The World Over

By FRANKLIN B. MORSE

Followers of intercollegiate rowing on the Pacific Coast believe they now know the underlying reason for the withdrawal of Stanford university from competition on the water.

At a football banquet held a few days ago in San Francisco, Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Stanford, during the course of a speech, made the following significant statement:

"While each institution should make the fullest use of its own particular climate and natural surroundings, there is no good reason why any institution should enter a field of sport when the handicaps are too great. Time is the only worthwhile possession of the student. It must be conserved, not dissipated. If a crew has to spend two hours going to and from its practice waters, rowing should be given up."

"The aim must be to include only those sports in the college calendar that require an average of not more than two afternoon hours from clothes to clothes."

Here, in a nutshell, Dr. Wilbur probably has expressed the sentiment that is taking columns of printed matter as to the discussion now raging as to the propriety of football teams going out of their particular "zones" of natural competition in order to compete in intercollegiate games.

If time is the most valuable possession of the student in college, one is able to glimpse some of the objections that faculties have in connection with their football teams taking long transcontinental trips for football games and other sports.

Yet, in view of the fact that three Eastern teams made the long trip in order to play post season football games in California, it would seem that in some institutions, at least, there is no great animosity against the plan. At all events, it is a two sided question which is going to be threshed out with the probable result that each university or college will decide on its own particular plan of action.

This is the trend at the present time. There can be no doubt that the athletic teams of the various institutions are the media through which the institutions are kept before the public and their greatest asset for publicity. Some of the larger and world known institutions probably can afford to curb their athletics, but it is equally sure that smaller colleges, realizing the advertising merits of good teams will continue to lend their support to intercollegiate games. This may be a part of the commercialism objected to in which event the onus must be taken from the students and undergraduates and placed squarely on the shoulders of the regents, trustees and faculties. It will be an interesting discussion.

SPORTS CHATTER

PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

Swimming has a real hold on the border of California and Mexico. The Glendale Rowing club, which, for years, has promoted the big swimming events at San Diego and at Coronado Tent City, is back of the movement to engage a competent swimming coach and thereby further advance swimming in southern California. In conjunction with the "Silver Gate Girls" Swimming Club, the San Diego Rowing club has engaged the services of Frank Rivas as aquatic coach for the two clubs. Rivas is at present coach at the swimming baths at Venice, Calif., and reports to the San Diego and Coronado section of the state early in January.

Swimming has always been a big factor in the southern part of the state of California. For years that section has promoted great swimming meets, on a par with the best in any part of the country, but the swimmers of Coronado and San Diego have not yet developed a world-famous swimmer, though full credit must be given that section for the ability of Clarence Pinkston, the Olympic world champion, in diving. Now, with a competent coach and as fine an outdoor course at Coronado Tent City as is to be found in the country, great progress is expected in the south of California.

When Joe Engle recommended that Washington pitcher, Ray Francis, from Seattle, scouts laughed, and, in fact, after the deal, Clark Griffith thought he was fooled. But Francis, a good game of ball as any twirler on the Washington team. So effective was Francis against Detroit that Ty Cobb was so impressed that last week he traded Gagnon to Washington for the Seattle left-hander. Baseball sure is a funny game. Seattle released Francis within a few hours.

Years ago, in Missoula, Mont., Cliff Blankenship, who managed the team, went to "Skipper" Roberts before a certain game and told him he could not afford to carry him any longer. The big catcher wanted to fight, and fight Blankenship managed to pacify him and Roberts went to the club house. Just as the game was ready to start, Blankenship received a telegram from Miller Huggins, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, offering him $2500 for immediate delivery of Roberts.

Blankenship rushed out of the club house and threw his arms around Roberts. "What's the big idea?" stuttered Roberts; "somebody is in line for a poke in the jaw."

"I've just sold you to St. Louis for $2500," enthused Blankenship, and he showed Roberts the telegram.

"Oh, I see now," said Roberts, "you were kidding me before."

Blankenship did not tell Roberts until years later that he was not kidding him.

Seek 'Mystery Man' In Slaying Trial

HEMPHILL, Texas, Jan. 4.—When the second day of the preliminary trial of Mrs. Lillian Knox, on charges of murdering her millionaire lumberman husband, Hiram Knox, got under way in justice court here today, the state bent its efforts toward proving that the letters purported to have been written by Knox telling of business troubles were forgeries.

This was in line with the effort of the state to break down Mrs. Knox's version of her husband's death, whom she claimed committed suicide because of business worries.

With only eight of twenty witnesses called by the state examined Wednesday, it is probable that the taking of testimony will consume all of today. The defense will not offer any testimony, it was announced.

As the preliminary trial of Mrs. Knox proceeded today, the state redoubled its efforts to locate a "mystery" man, who, it is said, will figure conspicuously in the case. The man sought is said to be prominent in sporting circles of Beaumont and South Texas.

At the state today, it was learned, will introduce a witness who will testify that a witness who will have been left by Knox, was forged and that both letters claimed to have been found in the room in which he was found were forged.

Shipbuilder's Wife Is Granted Divorce

YOU LUCKY

"I wish," I heard a man of about 50 say the other day, "that I had been born 20 years later. That would have given me my allotted four score years and ten ending during the war, instead of living through these unsettled reconstruction days. I don't like them. I don't like the way things look."

I used to wish I had been born 20 years earlier but for a more frivolous reason. I would like to have been born in the time when old furniture and old houses could be picked up for a song—and not Caruso's kind.

Tomboys Are the Rule Now

But lately I have reversed this idea. I think I should have liked to be born 20 years later so that I might have been a little girl in these days when little girls don't have to be tomboys to have almost as much outdoor freedom and fun as boys. Indeed that old word tomboy is seldom used nowadays because it is the accepted and the desired, instead of the surprising and objectionable thing for a girl to play outdoors just as a boy does.

Think of the good things that have been added to a little girl's life without her losing any of the prerogatives of girlhood—dolls, if she likes them, tea sets and anything else that is preeminently feminine.

The Advantages of Both Sexes

And while her party dresses are just as dainty or daintier than ever, think of the suitability of her outdoor dress: khaki bloomers and middie take the place of a dress that hampered all her movements, made climbing trees and such joys undignified, and had to be watched all the time lest it get torn or dirty.

I never see a little girl from five to ten in khaki middie and bloomers, bare legs and bobbed hair without a feeling of envy. How I should have loved it!

Think of the girls' camps and all the wonderful, health giving, joy giving sports the little girl lucky enough to attend them enjoys.

Think of all the wonderful good times, and all the healthful interests the Girl Scout movement brings into the lives of hundreds of thousands of girls.

Think of the freedom and joy in the water the little one piece bathing suits for children give compared to the long skirted affairs even children used to wear. No wonder the girl who doesn't swim is becoming almost as much of a rarity as the girl who did was 20 years ago.

Think of the fun and interest, sports at school and the great goal of the women's Olympic supply.

Less Room For Morbid Interests

And while you are thinking of all these things remember that every health interest may serve by crowding out some unhealthy or morbid interest in the girl as well as the boy.

I think all the children of today have reason to thank their lucky stars that they were born in what is surely the golden age for children. And I think girls ought to give double thanks to the stars, or the stars or whatever it was, that decided that they should be born at just this time.

SUIT OF DARK GRAY OXFORD

It is made with a box coat, worn over a straight line dress, and has, as its trimming, stitching of heavy white silk. A novel arrangement at the wrist is the double cuff, and the interesting white is found in an inset of flannel on the collar and ivory buttons trimming cuff and coat.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.
Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

"Dear Doctor:

"We have a little girl seven years old who is very much overweight. When we read your articles in the paper she started on the milk diet and we have followed the menus outlined every day since. She has lost seven pounds so far and we can notice such a difference in her."

"She is very anxious to lose some of her weight also, and it really is surprising the girl she has in sticking to it and doing without large portions of things she used to love to eat."

"Now we are wondering whether it is all right for her to eat the same things that adults do, or does she need more because she is growing so fast?"—Mrs. S."

Now if that is not a lesson for some of our weak willed sisters who write in that want to reduce but wonder if they will have the perseverance to stick to it! When you feel a flabbiness of your will power coming on just think of this baby girl showing the grit she does.

There is no radical difference in the diet necessary for a child to reduce and one for an adult, with this exception: Children should have milk—at least a pint and a half every day—for its calcium for the bones and teeth and for its protein. A pint of whole milk is 230 C's. It is of course, also very necessary that they get the protein sufficient for their growing tissues. So eggs, especially the egg whites, or lean meat or fish or fowl or cottage cheese, should be in the menu every day. Whole wheat bread and oatmeal of the room. With curtains of fine net, gauze or lace, run on rod at top and weighted at bottom with either fringe or small weights, and over-drapes corresponding in style and length with those on the larger windows of room.

Question—I have an old table and four chairs of good lines and proportions that I would like to finish for my breakfast room. They have a dark finish and I want to paint them old ivory with blue and pink design. I should like directions for removing the old stain and preparing it for the light-colored paint, can you give it to me?

Answer—The easiest way to remove the old finish is to apply a sandpaper, and then rub smooth with steel wool. Apply a coat of white paint and after letting dry for twenty-four hours, apply a coat of enamel of the desired color.

Decorations in contrasting colors may be applied with a stencil. It is rather difficult to apply straight lines, and for that reason it is not wise for the amateur to choose a design having straight lines.

Question—I have a luncheon set done in the old-fashioned cross stitch. The work is well done and the colors are soft and pretty. I am in a quandary as to whether luncheon linens embroidered in colors are in as good taste as those embroidered in all white. I should like to use it if it would not be considered passe.

Answer—Use your pretty set, and be assured that it is quite correct.

Ship Subsidy Bill Is Given to Senate

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—After a lapse of more than ten days, the administration's ship subsidy bill was thrust into the senate for debate. BEAUTY CHATS

EDNA KENT FORBES

There are so many little things one ought to know, little ways to improve the appearance for the time, or permanently, small things that are often called beauty secrets and aren't anything of the kind—that I feel a repetition of them won't come amiss today.

If your hair is wispy and dry and sticky after washing, it means one of two things. Either it was too dry already and has been dried still more by the shampooing, and probably by strong soap, or else it was not washed thoroughly enough to take the grease out, and the soap off. If you suspect the first cause, rub the scalp with hot olive oil the night before you shampoo. In any case, wash with hot water and a good soap (castile in liquid form being best) and give the hair at least three soapings with fresh water each time. It should have three hot and one cold rinsing, at least, preferably with a hose to force the water through. Then it will come out glossy.

If your skin is dry and rough and takes up dirt easily, rub it full of cleansing cream, then wash off with hot water and soap, and use powder. If you do this you'll have a fresh, rosy, clear complexion for a long time after.

If you look dead tired, take a hot salt bath and then down for a little before you dress, or at least, give yourself a cold cream face rub and wash this off as directed above. An ice rub is splendid, too, to eradicate wrinkles.

If your eyes are dull and expressionless from fatigue, hold wet cloths over them for a few minutes, then rinse them using an eye cup with a quite cool or cold solution of boric acid.

If hands and elbows look badly, wash and then rub them full of vanishing cream.

Tina—Of course you would have a bad skin after years of constipation. Not a pleasant subject, I know—but the condition is even less so. See your doctor—or, try this. Change your diet. That's imperative. An orange, toast, egg and coffee, perhaps cereal, in the morning; for luncheon, what you like but always stewed or fresh fruit to end it; and one green vegetable and a salad included in the dinner—and for a time, no heavy cakes or puddings.

Then, once a day, take a teaspoonful of agar-agar—(any drug store carries this) softened in a little water and swallowed, or mixed dry with your morning cereal. If you don't like this, take two or three yeast cakes every day—and take outdoor exercise as you can, and waist bending exercise indoors. You'll break up that condition and be mentally and physically better in no time.

Tomorrow—Tar Applications.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

PRESS IS LAUDED BY BIG BUSINESS

S. L. Weaver, of L. A. Tells Plumbers' League of Publicity Value

"Publicity is the greatest moral force that can be enlisted by industry to gain public confidence and stimulate business." This tribute to the press was paid by Sylvester L. Weaver, former president of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and one of the leading business men of the Pacific coast, in an address before the Sanitary Development League of Southern California, the membership of which includes 200 progressive plumbing concerns.

Commending the plumbing industry for the great strides it has taken in modern methods of sanitation and the higher standards of its products, Mr. Weaver said that it was one of the greatest evidences of the sincerity of purpose of the league to engage in an advertising campaign designed to elevate ideals and business practices.

"Your industry is serving the public by safeguarding public health and making better homes in our great southland through the installation of better and more modern plumbing materials," he continued.

Encourages Safe Building

"Nothing is so important at this time, when our section of the country is growing so rapidly, as to build for safety and health—to build so that this generation and the generations to come will be protected.

"I bring you a message of congratulation from the chamber of commerce and from the business men of southern California on the splendid spirit and the high principles upon which your league is founded; upon the mission it is performing, and upon the service it is performing.

"There is big business ahead of you in the plumbing industry and you will get the greatest of it by maintaining the high ideals and fine business practices you stand pledged to."

It was announced at the meeting that advertisements will appear each week in the daily papers of the leading cities of San Diego to Santa Barbara.

These advertisements are educational nature designed to acquaint the public with modern plumbing methods and the advantages and economy of using modern materials.

A number of people who hate the Volstead law because it doesn't prohibit it because it does.

The News ads produce results.

COMMENT THAT'S ALL

Back To Normal, Eh?
Greet 'Em With Buds!
No Place For Nighties
Nations Must Pay Up
—By Gil A. Cowan—

AMERICA is returning to normal! Absolutely! When the front pages of metropolitan newspapers chronicle gem thefts and gambling raids as the principal events of the day there is no question but what normalcy again reigns in this country of the free and land of the brave.

Perhaps more important than the jewel robberies is the fact that 1200 Los Angeles gamblers were driven to the streets in a few minutes by well concentrated police raids. However, it would appear that these were but "penny ante" affairs compared to the "big boys" operating in Spring street office buildings.

Records were shattered in a half million dollar jewel robbery in New York, it is noted, and well might several other things be shattered when one takes into consideration the evidence. It was a card party to which a wealthy woman wore her fortune and lost it—"as she was leaving for home."

"Meet Them With Flowers" strikes popular fancy amidships and is sure to howl over any eastern tourist who has "seen it in pictures" or recipient of "say it with fruit."

Indeed, it is a great idea that a great bouquet of California's choicest blooms be placed aboard every westbound continental train at the Arizona border cities.

For in flowers there is more than beauty. They are synonymous with love and appreciation and desire. They are pleasing to the senses and hold for most people a thrill like nothing else.

Big business men, remembered with a rose on their birthday, have stood before their fellows and spoke from their heart an appreciation of life that their employees and associates seldom realize.

The heart of many a maid has been swayed by a fragrant flower tenderly plucked from a wayside garden.

When the Citizens building was sold for $90,000 yesterday a new record was established in Glendale real estate.

But, when you stop to figure out the income, expenses and potentialities in Glendale business property such as the one concerned, you can quickly figure out that purchasers are getting their money's worth—and more.

From now on there should be no reasonable doubt in financing Glendale building. Not when there is better than 50 per cent or better to be made in a year.

Chicago judges have refused Ku Klux Klansmen places on juries. That's one way of getting out of one predicament—by getting into another.

Ohio legislators are going after the nightgown paraders "tooth and nails." They would give ordinary members in the Klan one to fifteen years and the electric chair for those who wear masks.

Gosh! The fire commissioner in Chicago "sentenced" a captain in the department to command a Hebrew platoon in the ghetto because he belonged to the Klan.

In New York business men who essayed to join the organization are being ostracized, driven to financial ruin, and otherwise becoming martyrs to their $10 membership fees.

If we hear of any more "atrocities" there may be some cause for sympathizing with the Ingledwood and Mer Rouge crusaders. But they will not need it if all do like the cartoonist suggested several days ago and burn up those "nighties" and forget the passport and quit paying tribute to the "hangers on" around "imperial headquarters."

It is only a matter of time when the members of the "ancient order" will be meeting on the street corner and laughing at their own foolishness.

A hooded order is so simple, so childish, so inane asinine in this great, big free open country of ours that a sensible person, who doesn't believe in high signs and fiery crosses and a lot more bunk, has to forgive a great deal in human nature that permits otherwise high-minded people becoming living examples of the Darwinian theory—"monkey is as monkey does."

Really, we tire of reading "reparations" and seeing no results. Either the terms imposed by the allies at the different conferences with German representatives are impossible, or there should be a prompt settlement of the war debts—Britain to America included.

Surely no one around here would expect to get more than ninety days without being closed out—and we cannot discern the difference between nations and business concerns. If they are defunct their creditors should either take charge or cancel the debt.

While the German mark represents nothing much in cash value, there seems to be no good reason why the mines, factories, forests and ship lines of that nation could not be operated at a profit by a more or less neutral power and the residue turned over to the creditor nations.

France has every right to demand every last dime due her, Belgium, too, ought to be paid dollar for dollar for every cent the war cost that nation. And America could well afford to take 25 cents on the dollar if Britain only got 50 cents, for there is no question but what the war was superinduced by Germany's fight

'Business Getting Better,
And Better' on North
Brand Block

That the 200 block on North Brand boulevard is no longer considered a dead end from the business district, but instead is a very integral part of the business section of Glendale, is attested by the fact that merchants in that block report a very splendid holiday trade and cite the fact that "Day by Day in Every Way Business Is Getting Better."

The Wilson-Bell Hardware company report the largest business during the past few weeks that the firm has enjoyed since opening its doors in Glendale. A new automobile truck has been added to their delivery department in order to take care of the fast-growing business.

Merchants in the 200 block are looking forward to a big business during the year to come and are making preparations to serve their patrons in the best possible manner.

Astronomer to Check All Wandering Stars

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 4.—The astronomers have a big job laid out for them. Forty years ago the positions of one hundred thousand stars were determined. Now Dr. Frank Schlesinger, director of the Yale University Observatory, believes that the locations of these many stars in the heavens should be observed and recorded again. Not that the observations of two score years ago were inaccurate; astronomers are so satisfied that they are correct that they intend to compare the proposed measurements with the earlier ones.

This comparison may throw new light on the form of the space that surrounds us, it may indicate whether the stars about us form a true universe or whether two separate entities are concerned. Dr. Schlesinger says: "Perhaps in the whole domain of physical science there is today no problem of great philosophical import."

If the project were completed, astronomers would then have a session of the motions across the line of sight of over one hundred thousand stars showing how far and in what direction across the heavens each of these stars has moved in the forty years that have elapsed since its position was recorded in the Astronomische Gesellschaft catalog.

Until a quarter of a century ago it was a general belief that the stars were moving in an entirely haphazard manner. In 1904 the noted Dutch astronomer, Prof. J. C. Kapteyn, who died recently, showed that observed proper motions of stars pointed to the existence of two intermingling star streams or drifts with a relative velocity of about twenty-five miles per second. Shortly after this, Dr. Schwarzschild found that the proper motions could be accounted for by an alternative hypothesis that the stars all form a single group in which the motions are more frequently parallel to a principal axis than at right angles to it. He considered this an indication that the stars are arranged in one ellipsoidal system.

Massive Key Found Buried in Street

GREENFIELD, N. C., Jan. 4.—A solid iron key, 11 1/2 inches in length, weighing 2 1/2 pounds, was found five feet under the surface of the earth by a colored man while digging in one of the streets here.

From all appearance the key has been hidden in the earth for many years and was judged by the several who have seen it to have been in use probably two or three centuries ago.

Simple Test Words Hard for Lawyers

HARTFORD, Conn., Jan. 4.—Judge Edwin S. Thomas of the United States District Court chuckled quietly while lawyers and government officials in the Federal building struggled vainly to spell correctly a list of ten simple words, all commonly written and spoken, which he had pronounced to them. The list follows: Supersede, innuendo, inculcate, rarely, vilify, repellent, plaguay, embarrass, harass, pick-nicking.

against Britain for world domination—a fight that America or any other nation faces if it seeks trade in the markets of the world.

However, it is to be expected that the United States will adopt peaceable means of getting its share of business in competition with our English cousins. Yet is it not an established fact that anyone looking for trouble usually finds it?

And if Britain, Japan, Germany or any other nation looks on America as any weakening in the matter of protecting its rights, there's apt to be "hell popping." All of which is not a threat, but a promise, backed by 99.9 per cent of the population, simon-pure Americans.

AUTO AFIRE ON BRAND BOULEVARD

Blaze Is Extinguished by Harry Granger, Owner;
Damage Slight

The car of Harry Granger caught fire at noon yesterday, while parked in front of 204 South Brand boulevard, and but for the prompt action of Robert Blume, would have been completely consumed.

Seeing the flames issuing from under the hood, Mr. Blume seized a fire extinguisher and rushed to the spot, where he joined Mr. Granger and the two of them tore off the hood and applied the contents of the extinguisher.

The effect was immediate and the flames were put out. A survey showed the damage to be slight. The fire was caused by a leaky feed line from the vacuum tank, causing the gasoline to drip on the exhaust manifold.

Kill Lily Pads on Lake With Kerosene

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Jan. 4.—Mirror lake is to be cleared of tons of lily pads floating on its surface. The city commission has purchased 15,000 gallons of kerosene with which to do the work.

Mirror lake is one of the prettiest bodies of water in South Florida, but floating lily pads gained a foothold in it a few years ago and spoiled it for pleasure craft. Numerous ways have been suggested for ridding the lake of this nuisance. The city recently voted $4000 for this purpose. About one-third of it was expended in various experiments, when it was discovered that kerosene is fatal to lily pads when freed on the surface of the water. The lily pads rapidly die and then absorb most of the surplus oil. When the pads have been killed they will be removed and burned.

SOCIAL SUCCESS

Someone has said "Social success is the infinite capacity for being bored." That may be a rather crude way to put it, but there is more than a little truth in the statement. Most people like to talk about themselves, and good listeners are scarce.

Man Must Marry to Collect Big Legacy

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 4.—One hundred and eighty thousand dollars is the reward of Frank Donovan, street car operator, from his grand-mother, Mrs. Sallie A. Owens, who recently died at Dover, Del., and who, by her will, left Donovan that amount.

But he must, in order to get the money, find him a wife and live happily with her until 1930. Donovan will come into possession of the money when he is 31 years old, provided he can prove that he has been married for at least a year and been happy during that time.

Donovan pointed out that by his next birthday, August 14, 1923, he must be married in order to carry out his share of the peculiar arrangement and receive $8,000 yearly until 1930.

QUITS "MOB" CASE

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 4.—St. Clair Adams, New Orleans attorney, who was appointed recently by governor John M. Parker as special assistant attorney-general for prosecution of persons arrested in connection with the "hooded mob" murders at Mer Rouge, has resigned, it was announced today.

Drunken Drivers Are Called City Menace

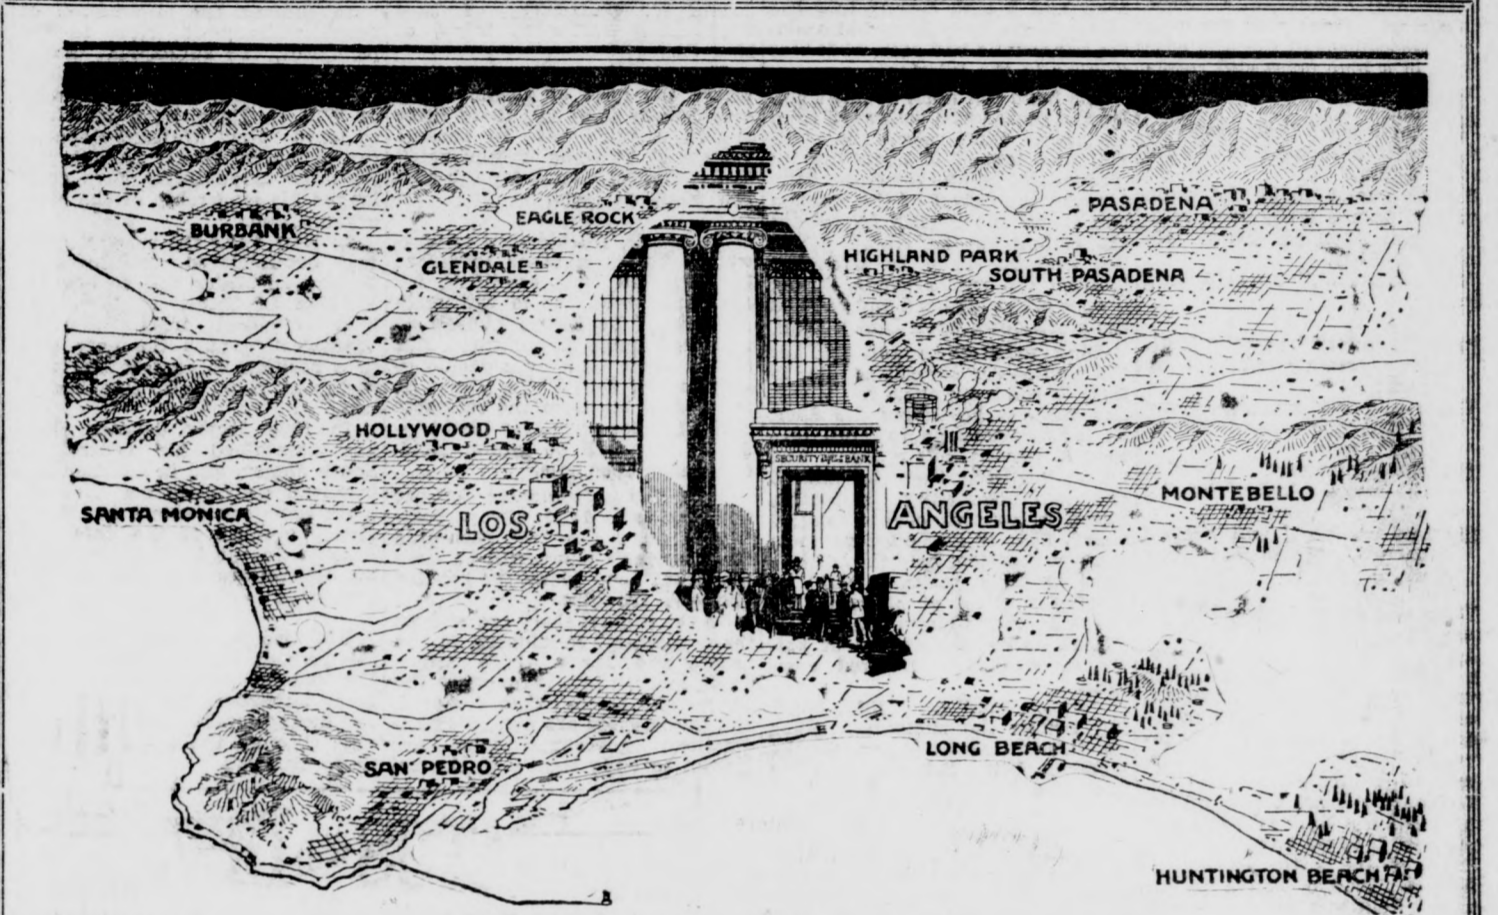

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—"Intoxicated drivers in New York City are a worse menace than crazy men with loaded revolvers."

So Magistrate House told William Simms, a chauffeur, of 3117 Broadway, in sentencing him to thirty days in the workhouse. Simms was arraigned in Traffic Court for driving an automobile while intoxicated. His license also was revoked.

Former Dumb Girl Talks With Rubber

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 4.—Nine-year-old Mary Majaly breathed normally today through a rubber windpipe and talked for the first time in five years. Attacked with laryngeal diphtheria when she was four years old, a piece of the trachea became closed and a portion of her windpipe was removed. The joining of the several ends of the windpipe with rubber tubing was effected by Dr. Henry Orion.

"Oh, nuts!" exclaimed the other, disgustedly. "You don't think you can put that over on any wise guy from Chi, do you? Who will they think croaked de ole woman an' de ki-yi? Will they think dey kilt deyselves?"

"Dey'll think Byrne an' his pardner croaked 'em, you simp," replied Crumb.

Dink scratched his head, and as the possibilities of the scheme filtered into his dull brain a broad grin broadened his yellowed teeth.

"You're dere, pal," he exclaimed, real admiration in his tone. "But you goin' to do it?"

"I'll do it," said Crumb. "Dere ain't no chanct of gettin' in bad for it, so I jest as soon do the job. Get me a knife, or an ax from de kitchen—de gat makes too much noise."

Something awoke Billy Byrne with a start. Faintly, in the back of his consciousness, the dim suggestion of a loud noise still reverberated. He sat up and looked about him.

"I wonder what that was?" he mused. "It sounded like the report of a gun."

Bridge awoke about the same time, and turned lazily over, raising himself upon an elbow. He grinned at Billy.

"Good mornin'," he said, and then:

Says I, "Then let's be on the float. You certainly have got my goat."

You make me hungry in my throat for seeing things that's new.

Out there somewhere we'll ride the range a-lookin for the new and strange.

My feet are tired and need a change. Come on! It's up to you!"

"Come on, then," agreed Billy, coming to his feet.

As he rose there came, faintly, but distinctly, the unmistakable scream of a frightened woman. From the direction of the farmhouse it came—from the farmhouse at which Billy had purchased their breakfast.

Without waiting for a repetition of the cry Billy wheeled and broke into a rapid run in the direction of the little cluster of buildings. Bridge leaped to his feet and followed him, dropping behind though, for he had not had the road work that Billy recently had been through in his training for the battle in which he had defeated the "white hope" that time in New York when Professor Cassidy had wagered his entire pile upon him, nor in vain.

Dink searched about the summer kitchen for an ax or hatchet; but failing to find either rummaged through a table drawer until he came upon a large carving knife. This would do the job nicely. He thumbed the edge as he carried it back into the parlor to Crumb.

The poor woman, lying upon the floor, was quite conscious. Her eyes were wide and rolling in horror. She struggled with her bonds, and tried to force the gag from her mouth with her tongue; but her every effort was useless. She had heard every word that men passed between the two men. She knew that they would carry out the plan they had formulated and that there was no chance that they would be interrupted by their gruesome work, for her husband had driven over to a farm beyond Holliday, leaving before sunrise, and there was little prospect that he would return before midnight in the evening. The detectives from Kansas City could not possibly reach the farm until far too late to save her.

She saw Dink return from the summer kitchen with the long knife. She recalled the day she had bought that knife in town, and the various uses to which she had put it. That very morning she had sliced some bacon with it. How distinctly such little things recurred to her at this frightful moment. And now the hideous creature standing beside her was going to use it to cut her throat.

She saw Crumb take the knife and feel of the blade, running his thumb along it. She saw him stoop, his eyes turned down upon hers. He grasped her chin and forced it upward and back, the better to expose her throat.

Oh, why could she not faint? Why must she suffer all these hideous preliminaries? Why could she not even close her eyes?

Crumb raised the knife and held the blade close above her bared neck. A shudder ran through her, and then the door crashed open and a man sprang into the room. It was Billy Byrne. Through the window he had seen what was passing in the interior.

His hand fell upon Crumb's collar and jerked him backward from his prey. Dink seized the shotgun and turned it upon the intruder; but he was too close. Billy grasped the barrel of the weapon and threw the muzzle up toward the ceiling as the tramp pulled the trigger. Then he wrenched it from the man's hands, swung it once above his head and crashed the stock down upon Dink's skull.

Dink went down and out for the count—for several counts, in fact. Crumb stumbled to his feet and made a break for the door. In the doorway he ran full into Bridge, winded, but ready. The latter, realizing that the matted one was attempting to escape, seized a handful of his tangled beard, and, as he had done upon another occasion, held the tramp's head in rigid position while he planted a series of blows in the fellow's face—blows that left Crumb as completely out of battle as was his mildewed comrade.

"Watch 'em," said Billy, handing Bridge the shotgun. Then he turned his attention to the woman. With the carving knife that was to have ended her life he cut her bonds. Removing the gag from her mouth he lifted her in his strong arms and carried her to the little horsehair sofa that stood in one corner of the parlor, laying her upon it very gently.

He was thinking of "Maw" Watson. This woman resembled her just a little—particularly in her comfortable, motherly expansiveness, and she had had a kind word and a cheery good-bye for him that morning as he had departed.

The woman lay upon the sofa, breathing hard, and moaning just a little. The shock had been almost too much even for her stolid nerves. Presently she turned her eyes toward Billy.

"You are a good boy," she said, "and you come just in the nick o' time. They got all my money. It's in their clothes," and then a look of terror overspread her face. For the moment she had forgotten what she had heard about this man—that he was an escaped convict—a convicted murderer. Was she any better off now that she had let him know about the money than she was with the others after they discovered it?

At her words Bridge knelt and searched the two tramps. He counted the bills as he removed them from their pockets.

"Eleven hundred?" he asked, and handed the money to Billy.

Daily News Letter

General News and Gossip from Staff Writers at Home and Abroad.

TODAY—George R. Holmes, Washington correspondent, declares that Senators Watson, Wadsworth and Edge have achieved such political prestige and power in Republican ranks of late as to be names to conjure with in the event one is contemplating the presidential chair in case Warren G. Harding is not a candidate again.

TOMORROW—Frank E. Mason, Paris, writes that "Black and White" are the vogue in France this season—he has special reference to a play by Sacha Guitry and to the career of Sikl.

For International News Service, WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—To all those various and sundry Republican gentlemen who are casting coveting eyes on the White House in 1924—in the event Warren G. Harding should decide not to run again—it is suggested they cultivate with some assiduity three sitting members of the United States senate, to-wit:

James E. Watson, of Indiana; James W. Wadsworth, of New York, and Walter E. Edge, of New Jersey.

Here in the national capital, where the gods of politics sleep ever fitfully if at all, these three are in a fair way to become known as "Titanic Triumvirate" in Republican circles for the next few years at least.

No one in Washington, or elsewhere, knows whether President Harding will be a candidate for a second term. It is extremely doubtful if he knows himself at this early stage of the game. But in the event he should decide to step out of the White House at the end of his term the scramble that will then ensue for his abandoned toga will be grand, glorious and stupendous.

Republican candidates for the nomination in 1924, always bearing in mind the "if" regarding Mr. Harding's plans, will be more numerous than plans for settling Europe's troubles.

In the cabinet there are at least three potential candidates, in the senate and house there are a dozen more, while throughout the forty-eight states that comprise the union there are numerous Republican governors who are known to cling tightly to the

For two years that remain of the present administration all of the federal patronage of these three important states—and it is no inconsiderable amount—will pass through the hands of these three senators.

APPARATUS AND DEVICES

By RALPH BROWN, RADIO ENGINEER

PROTECTIVE DEVICES

Radio has entered so many homes that the National Board of Underwriters have very materially altered their regulations regarding protective devices against fire by lightning or other electrical risks.

Those who would protect themselves against increased premiums or cancellation of their policies would do well to inquire of their brokers or agents and meet the new conditions. They are somewhat lengthy and cannot be reproduced in the limited space devoted to this subject. However, we show in the accompanying cut a device approved by the Board of Underwriters which may be obtained cheaply.

From investigation it is all that the manufacturers claim, a dependable arrester.

RADIO EXPLAINED

ELECTRICAL CURRENT

The current flowing in a circuit is no stronger at one point of the circuit than at another. This can be proved by connecting a measuring instrument called an ammeter into the circuit at different points and making comparative readings. It will be found to register the same at whatever point the test is made. A useful illustration of the electric circuit is a closed circuit of pipe completely filled with water and provided with a pump or some other device for causing the water to circulate. The amount of water which leaves a given point in each second is just the same as the amount which arrives in the same length of time. Now in the electric circuit we have no material fluid, but we suppose that there exists a substance which we call electricity. Electricity behaves in a circuit much like an incompressible fluid in a pipe line. We are very sure that electricity is not like any material substance that we know, but the common practice among workers in the electrical field of calling it "juice" shows that they think of it analogously as a fluid. We will, then, imagine the electric current to be a stream of electricity flowing around the circuit.

One way of measuring the rapidity with which water is flowing is to let it pass through a meter which registers the total number of gallons or quarts which passes through. By dividing the quantity by the time it has taken to flow or pass we may obtain the rapidity of the flow. There are instruments by which it is possible to measure the total quantity of electricity which passes in a circuit during a certain time. If we divide this quantity by the time we obtain the amount of electricity which has passed in one second. This is a measure of the current strength.

In practice, however, the strength of the current is measured by instruments known as ammeters, which shows at any moment how strong the current is. It also enables us to note, at a glance, what changes take place from moment to moment. We may also by means of an instrument known as an amper-hour meter ascertain the amount of energy that has passed over the circuit. These two recording instruments would therefore correspond to the speedometer of an automobile where, on one dial, is recording the number of miles the auto is speeding and on a second dial the total number of miles the car has traveled.

Ex-Russian General Seeks Seattle Job

SEATTLE, Jan. 4.—Armed with a Russian-American dictionary, General Alexander Ivanoff, one of Russia's military dictators under the late czar, is searching for work here today. He arrived as a stowage passenger on the steamer Iyo Maru. When he has earned enough money for his wife's passage, he will bring Mrs. Ivanoff from Shanghai, where she is stranded, he declared in discussing his future.

House Votes Huge Sum From Treasury

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—In three hours the house voted from the federal treasury in appropriations for 1924 a total of $948,000,000. These sums were $534,614,000 for the postoffice department; $294,500,000 for the interior department, including $24,000,000 for pensions, and $68,981,000 for the agricultural department.

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE MARMALADE

One day Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy came to call on Mrs. Twisttail, the lady pig, who was mother to Curly and Floppy, the piggie boys.

"Do sit down and talk for a while," invited Mrs. Twisttail, as she wiggled her quirkly tail over a chair to take off the dust. I mean the pig lady took the dust off the chair, not off her tail.

"Oh, I can't stay a minute!" cried Nurse Jane. "I just came to bring back the molasses I borrowed off you last year."

"No hurry at all," said Mrs. Twisttail. "But why can't you stay a while?"

"I must get back and make some marmalade for Uncle Wiggily," said Nurse Jane.

"Did you hear that?" asked Curly of Floppy.

"Hear what?" Floppy wanted to know. The piggie boys were in the pantry, looking for something to eat.

"Did you hear what Nurse Jane said?" went on Curly. "She said she was going to make a parade for Uncle Wiggily. I guess maybe he's going to play soldier, or something like that, and he's going to have a parade. Let's go and be in it."

"All right," agreed Floppy, and out of the house they ran. Of course they had made a mistake. Nurse Jane had said "MARMALADE," which is quite different.

But Curly and Floppy thought the bunny gentleman was going to have a procession and they wanted to be in it. As they ran along Johnnie and Billie Bushytail, the squirrel boys, saw the two pigs.

"Where are you going?" chattered Billie.

"Off to Uncle Wiggily's parade! Come on!" invited Curly. So the squirrel boys followed the piggie boys.

Pretty soon Jackie and Peetle Bow-Now, the doggie boys, saw the squirrel and piggie running along.

"Where are you going?" barked Jackie.

"Uncle Wiggily is going to have a parade and we're going to be in it!" chattered Johnnie.

"Come on!" invited Billie.

So the doggie boys ran after the squirrel boys and the squirrel boys ran after the piggie boys.

Pretty soon Nannie and Billie Wagtail, the goat children, saw the animal boys skipping along.

"Where are you going?" bleated Billie.

"Uncle Wiggily is going to have a parade and we're all going!" invited Peetle.

So Nannie and Billy followed the doggie boys, the doggie boys followed the squirrel boys and the squirrel boys followed the piggie boys.

Their noses straight for Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow. Soon Tommie, Joie and Kittie Kat saw the animal children running.

"Where are you going?" mewled Tommie.

"Uncle Wiggily is going to have a parade and we're all going!" bleated Billie Wagtail.

"Come along!" invited Nannie.

So the pussy children followed the goats, the goats followed the dogs, the dogs followed the squirrels and the squirrel-urles followed the piggie boys, while the piggie boys followed their noses until they all came to Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow. Just then Nurse Jane came across the lots.

"What's all this?" she cried, as she saw the animal boys and girls. "Uncle Wiggily came to the door and twinkling his pink nose, he asked:

"What's the matter? Is the Wolf or Fox coming?"

"No, but we have come to help you in the parade that Nurse Jane is going to make for you. She told our mother she was going to make you a parade!" granted Curly.

"Oh, ho! Ha! Ha! Ha! I didn't say PARADE. I said MARMALADE!" laughed Nurse Jane.

"Oh, it's too bad to send them back without a parade," cried Uncle Wiggily. "Come on, children. We'll march around the bungalow." So they did this and when they had marched around three times Nurse Jane had spread some slices of bread and jam for the cats, the goats, the dogs, the squirrels and the piggies. And how happy they were!

And if the kitchen oil cloth doesn't try to sit in the parlor with the velvet rug when company comes, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's tickle spear. Copyright, 1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Volstead 'Padlock' Clause Is Extended

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 4.—Further extension of the injunction provision of the prohibition law was decided upon at a conference between Mrs. Mabel W. Willebrandt, assistant attorney-general and officials of the prohibition unit.

The "padlock" clause of the Volstead act empowers federal officials to seek injunctions from the federal courts closing hotels, houses, ships, business and other places for a year if circumstances justify the action.

(Cadman) and "The Spring" (Parker), also singing as a closing number later in the evening. "Barcarole" from "Love Tales from Hoffman." This quartet is composed of Mrs. Charles A. Parker, Mrs. Frank Arnold, Mrs. John Cole and Mrs. A. M. Draper. Harp accompaniments were played by Mrs. Enona Hopkins and piano by Miss Gertrude Chapman. Mayor Spencer Robinson delighted the guests with a rendition of "Mother o' Mine" followed by "Ectasy" (Mrs. H. H. Beach). "Ballad" (Heffelman), and Collin Campbell, recently of Chicago, gave a beautiful piano solo, "Dante's Sonata," (Arrangement by Liszt).

As the guests passed through the dining and breakfast rooms they were served by colored maids, a dainty collation of fruit salad, chicken straws, french pastry, hot coffee, candy and nuts.

New Year Greetings
Dr. James Whitcomb Brougher, in a charming speech to the host and hostess, presented congratulations and New Year's greetings from the Temple Baptist church, of which they have long been members. He stated that he "would rather see Mattison B. Jones, presiding in this beautiful white house in Glendale, standing for the principles which he is well known to support, than to see him presiding in the governor's mansion at Sacramento, supporting principles which are not those for which he should stand."

Dr. Brougher then presented to Mr. and Mrs. Jones a handsome silver platter, a gift from the commandery, 53, Knights Templar of Glendale.
L. Behymer, impresario, of Los Angeles, in congratulating his host and hostess, was pleased to announce that the day was the thirty-seventh anniversary of his and Mrs. Behymer's marriage also. Mrs. Jones made a most gracious response to these and was followed by Mr. Jones, in a speech of cordial welcome and greetings to his friends and fellow citizens, whom he wished would remember that at Bel Aire the "latch string is always out."

BRIDGE BREAKS, SCORE DROWNED

Searching Parties Are Facing Hopeless Task to Find All of Bodies

Long-Bell Lumber company employee, is in a precarious condition with a crushed shoulder. Others injured are William M. Sullivan, T. A. Wakefield, Kalama, Wash.; Charles Stroud, Long-Bell employee; Alfred Evans, Kelso; Alben Pennell, Kelso; William Hay, Standard Oil company driver.

Bodies in Wreckage
Up to the early hours of this morning no bodies had been recovered. It's almost certain some have been pinned in the wreckage.

The bridge, which connects East and West Kelso, crashed during the evening peak load rush of home-bound workmen from the Long-Bell Lumber company's plant.

Pressure of a 50,000-ton log jam against abutments held the structure in a deathly grip since Christmas. Engineers have long declared the bridge unsafe. A new steel bridge is under construction and will be ready February 1.

Frantic men, women and children were hurled into the cold, rushing waters when the old flimsy structure gave way. A cable snapped, the suspension towers cracked, swayed and fell and the jack-knife span tumbled into the river.

Lights Go Out

"The scene immediately became a mass of struggling people and falling cars," J. F. Hamilton, eye-witness and engineer, stated. "Cries of anguish came from the injured caught in the twisted wreckage. The lighting system went out with the crash and I could not detect any swimmers. Six or seven men scrambled from the river and were marooned on the wreckage of the draw span. Of the cars which went down, but two were to be seen, smashed and stranded on the timbers."

Survivors are said to have fought the powerful current until rescued by the crew of the steamer Covell and a small gasoline launch.

AMERICA'S MOVE NOT YET DECIDED

Harding Is Conferring on Administration's Policy Towards Europe

In a disagreement over the reparations controversy, it appeared today from the conferences which have been held here to date between President Harding, Secretary of State Hughes, and Colonel George Harvey.

Whatever steps the American government may yet decide to take, if any, are not yet ready for presentation, it was said, and while "keenly regret" the break up of the Paris conference, it nevertheless feels powerless to prevent it.

Threatens Warfare

The "dead line" for American action was said to be January 15, the date on which Premier Poincare has threatened to send French soldiers to occupy the Ruhr, and the view was expressed that American proposals would be as effective up to that date as they would be now. In fact, the opinion was expressed in some quarters that whatever proposals the United States may have to make, if any, would be likely to receive a better reception after the conference at Paris broke up than before. The gravity of the situation and the need for adjustment would then be all the more apparent.

President Harding, Secretary Hughes and Ambassador Harvey continued their conferences today in the seclusion of the White House. The president received no callers during the day and except for one minor engagement, devoted the entire day to discussing with Colonel Harvey the administration's policy abroad.

Robinson Resolution

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts broke in on the morning conference to take up with the president the administration's policy toward the Robinson resolution, which would authorize the president to appoint an American member of the reparations commission.

After the conference, Senator Lodge declined to state what attitude the administration forces in the senate would adopt toward it. The White House was silent.

It was apparent today the Robinson resolution was somewhat embarrassing to the administration forces. President Harding has said several times the United States should be officially represented on the commission, but at the same time there is a marked aversion to being "pushed" into it by a Democratic senator from Arkansas, who was a pronounced League of Nations advocate.

"A had was accomplishing a desirable thing," was the description applied to the Robinson move in administration circles.

State's Financial Condition Is Told

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 4.—California is "one white spot on the financial map of the world," Ed- with M. Daugherty, head of the state corporation department, says in his biennial report, filed recently with Governor William D. Stephens.

This position, says Mr. Daugherty, California has maintained through one of the most critical periods in financial history. The total par value of securities authorized by the department during the period from September 1, 1920, to September 1, 1922, was $1,452,593,830.36, or approximately one billion and a half dollars.

This means a comparatively $750,000,000 per year. Mr. Daugherty's records show that of the billion and half dollars authorized, $168,353,600 were par value bonds and notes authorized to be sold in the state. The last biennium shows an aggregate par value of $754,731,321.

It is pointed out in Mr. Daugherty's report that the department has been self-supporting and has a $350,000 balance in the state treasury.

THEATRES

The Glendale
Glendale's proud peacock as it looked strutting in the Tournament of Roses on Monday is to be shown on the Glendale theatre screen tonight.

In addition will be shown Rex Ingram's production "Trifling Women." Ingram is the author and director and those who have enjoyed his "Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" and "The Prisoner of Zenda" will find this new success as great a pleasure.

In perfecting his inspiration Mr. Ingram had a splendid cast to work with and this with fine settings and artistic costuming has produced a real masterpiece.

New Campaign in Near East Relief

Charles V. Vickrey, general secretary of the Near East Relief Commission, has sailed to supervise the realignment of the relief forces there. New orphanages are to be established and relief stations for Christian refugees opened in many sections through the Near East territory threatened by the Turkish invasion.

Director Outlines Farm Bureau Plan

BERKELEY, Jan. 4.—Organized on a community basis, the farm bureau in California are unique, says B. H. Crocheron, director of agricultural extension in the University of California. In most states there is a county organization and nothing more. In California the county farm bureau is made up of smaller units called farm bureau centers. There are already not fewer than 500 farm bureau centers in as many communities in California. These centers carry out the farm bureau idea of "better farms and homes in the open country."

In 1913, when the first farm bureau was started in Humboldt county, it was then and there planned to keep the farm bureau and its work out in the open country rather than concentrate it in a county-seat town where it might become overshadowed by urban influence. The rural community was to be built up by systematic work of the people for their own benefit. This idea has been steadily held fast in the nine years during which the farm bureaus have progressed.

The county extension agents—farm advisers, home demonstration agents and club leaders, represent the state and federal institutions of agriculture in the country. They are placed in counties where there is a definite and expressed demand for extension work from the farming people. If that demand for their services ever ceased, the county extension agents would be withdrawn. Thus far, however, the University of California College of Agriculture has been embarrassed by the number of counties which have requested agents in excess of the supply available under the funds appropriated. The demands from farmers and farm women are increasing so rapidly that the work must be expanded or fall short of what the people expect from it.

London Club Serves Rarest of Viands

LONDON, Jan. 4.—French cooks, 125 in number, provided a feast of Lucullus for 300 guests, members of the Hotel and Restaurant Proprietors' club.

Baby lamb from 'Auclair, ducks from Rouen, Russian and terrapin soups figured in the menu of this banquet, which, in full, was:

La Tasse de Terrapine
Le Witcheima
La timbale de sole Carmen
La selle de Pauline Saladaise
Les Petits Pois aux Laitues
L'Aiguillette de Rouennais
Brillat Savarin
La Salade gastronomique
Le Cardon au Parmesan
Doyenne Comice Ginette
Les Mignardises
La Corbeille de Fruits
"The Rouen duck," according to M. Latty, chief cook of the feast, "was braised in a special copper. It was stuffed with the bird's liver and mushrooms. The slices, when carved, looked like fine quills or feathers. It took two months to get the turtles for the terrapin soup."

AWARD CONTRACT FOR NEW BUILDING

Harry Blumenthal to Erect Store Structure for Robinson's Shop

Construction is to be commenced next week upon a new building at 116 South Brand boulevard to house Robinson's Men's Shop.

"We opened business here two years ago," stated J. A. Robinson of 420 Oak street this morning. "Our business has grown until now we are obliged to seek more room."

Harry Blumenthal of 722 South Central avenue, who owns the property, has contemplated improving it with a larger building for some time and has awarded the contract to May and Hellman, of 205 East Broadway, with the understanding that the new building is to be completed within ten weeks.

A feature of the new store, which will have about 2750 feet of floor space, including a mezzanine floor, is the fact that it will have over fifty-seven linear feet of display windows. The exterior of the building will be twenty-five by ninety feet in size. The display windows will have a depth of twenty-one feet.

Although it has been the policy of this store to give their customers value with every sale, instead of having frequent sales, Mr. Robinson stated that an exception would be made in this case.

"We are putting on a sale to reduce our large stock rather than move it," he remarked. "In moving a stock everybody knows that it becomes damaged, which is expensive."

FOR WRITERS TO PONDER
No commonplace is ever effectively got rid of, except by essentially emptying one's self of it into a book; for, once trapped into a book, then the book can be put into the fire and all will be well.

DRILLING AND BORING

In machine shop parlance, drilling is making a round hole through metal or the like with a rotating pointed metal that forces its way through by pressure and rotation, while boring is enlarging a hole that already exists. Cutting a circular hole in wood with a brace and bit, as done by carpenters, is boring, but a similar operation in metal is drilling.

An anvil for light work has been invented that can be used on a man's knee.
